Safety Sticker
May Cost $200

A fine of $200 may be assessed from Texas automobile owners whose vehicles are caught being driven but not inspected after September 6. Safety department personnel in Austin were reported working on this uniform law early this week. Although the inspection deadline was last Saturday, September 6, a number of cars are seen on the streets and highways that do not have the familiar yellow sticker.

A survey taken early this summer showed a total of 2,100 cars and trucks in the immediate trade area of Canyon that required inspection. A check late Monday afternoon of the five local inspection stations showed that this number was exceeded by 58. In other words, there were 2,158 cars and trucks inspected by these five local stations.

An explanation was offered by an attendant at the Stevenson Pontiac Company. He said they had inspected many cars from South Amarillo and Happy. These cars coming in from other places, possibly to avoid a long waiting period, have resulted in a greater number of cars and trucks being inspected here than exist in the immediate trade area.

There are still some cars and trucks in the vicinity that have not been inspected. The sheriff and state highway patrolmen were not picking up cars without the safety sticker Monday afternoon. They were awaiting action by the safety department in Austin and by the time this is read by you officials may be picking up un-inspected cars and dishing out $200 fines to owners.

New Committee Added to C of C For Holiday Work

The Chamber of Commerce recently added a new committee to the nine committees it already had. The new committee is known as the Retail Merchants Committee. Gene Davis, manager of Moses 5 and 10 cent store, is chairman of the committee and the members are Clay Cooper, Jack Jennings, J. A. Young, Bernard Warren and Bob Clark.

The committee met Monday morning to discuss the problem of getting a float for local merchants to enter in the Tri-State Fair parade in Amarillo September 22.

Another subject discussed was a float to publicize and boost the WTSC and McMurry football game. This event will be held in Amarillo on the night of September 27.

One of the main purposes of the committee is to lay plans for a Christmas program. In addition to these functions the committee will represent the retail merchants of Canyon in the promotion of retail trade.

Peg started his radio career in Dallas in 1925, and will observe his 27th year on the air with the opening of the Dallas State Fair on October 4.

City and C of C Officials Attend Water Meeting

The three city commissioners and several board members of the Chamber of Commerce were present at the Canadian River Dam Project meeting in Amarillo today. The meeting was scheduled for noon and was held in the Herring Hotel.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Glenn Waggoner said the group was going to the meeting with the hope of finding a way to get into the original pact. Such a move would be a great relief on our underground water supply. Although this supply is adequate at present it is beginning to dwindle slightly and may become dangerously low within the next 20 years.

By getting into the pact the people of Canyon and Randall County would be assured of an abundant water supply indefinitely. At the time the original pact of cities was drawn up Canyon appeared to have an abundant supply of water that would always meet the needs of the people. During the past couple of years the city's wells have started getting low through the summer months. This has caused some alarm among official circles and some are hoping that it is not too late to get into the original pact.

August Building Permits Decline

During the month of August the city's building permits totaled $31,200. This is a drop of $26,900 from the total amount of permits granted for the month of July. The July total was $58,100.

All of the building permits issued for the month of August are for residences or additions to residences. There were only six permits issued and the amount in each case ranged from $200 up to $12,000.

Builders and contractors got off to a slow start for the month as no permit was issued until August 5. Two were issued on the 7th and it was the 14th before another permit was granted. The other two permits came near the end of the month. One being given on the 19th and the other the 30th.

Remodeling Job At Church Shows Faulty Fixture

Officials at the First Baptist Church recently removed the old light fixture in the main auditorium of the building and found the huge chandelier almost ready to fall. According to Dennis Lyles, educational director of the church, the fixture was carefully lowered to the floor. When it was inspected the men found that the fixture had been in place by only two screws and they were loose.

Baptist officials could not shed any light upon the manner in which the church obtained the light fixture. All of them know that it had been there for a long, long time. It became obsolete and was being removed in order that a modern system of lighting could be installed.

The church was recently remodeled and a system of indirect lighting was installed. As soon as this system was functioning properly the large light fixture was no longer necessary. No doubt the removal of the huge fixture prevented the fixture from falling later and doing considerable damage to the building. There is a possibility that someone could have been injured by the fall of the fixture also.

City to Replace Present Highway Traffic Signal

Last week Dudley Bayne, city secretary, said that another traffic light was going to be installed soon at the highway and 4th Avenue. The light that is there now will be removed for the sake of safety.

During the past six weeks the light has been hit by some object a number of times. This has resulted in the light becoming so that there was confusion as to who had right-of-way. Men were always being sent out to make necessary repairs but it required some time for them to get there.

Bayne said the new light would be installed higher than the present one so that trucks would be sure and clear it.

Another dangerous factor about the light is the fact that it does not always function properly. Bayne said some of the little mechanisms inside the light were probably worn. There are times when the light will be on red for highway traffic, then turn caution as if it is going to change to green and then go back to red again.

Bayne said city officials knew this trouble existed and had sent men down to check the light but the trouble could not be found. That is why the City decided to get another traffic light to be installed there.

State Officers Asked to Come Out for Ike

At the end of the Democratic State Convention yesterday in Amarillo, state officials were requested to come out and campaign for the election of Eisenhower on the Republican ticket.

The proposed plan to place two Democratic tickets on the November ballots was defeated. The Democratic ticket will be headed by Stevenson and the Republican ticket by Eisenhower.

Stevenson was blistered by both Governor Shivers and Attorney General Price Daniel, who won the nomination for U. S. Senator. Both have been frank in their opposition to the Democratic ticket.

Two Are Jailed On Robbery and Assault Charge

One of the most degrading types of crime possible to commit occurred Wednesday night in the vicinity of South and East Amarillo. Carroll Moore of Amarillo was the victim who was forced into an indecent relation with one Sargent Benavides.

Local authorities also said that approximately $300 was taken from the victim. In their driving the men came over in Randall County and back into Potter County. Consequently they face charges in both counties. Lem Pounds, Randall County deputy sheriff, said charges of robbery by assault were filed here Thursday, Sept. 4.

Local authorities have a statement made by Lloyd L. Cress. The witness, according to the statement, was the unwilling accomplice of Sgt. Benavides. In the statement Cress maintains that Benavides used a knife to force Moore into the indecent relation.

At present Cress is under a $2,000 bond in Amarillo and Benavides is being held without bond. Authorities said the two would face charges in Amarillo before being brought to Canyon for trial. Pounds also said that it was possible that the robbery-by-assault charge would be changed to another charge before the two come to trial here. The charge the two men will face here will depend upon the grand jury action when it convenes September 29.

Bank Adopts Uniform Policy Of Postings

The following statement was issued Tuesday by W. C. Black, president of the First National Bank, regarding posting of checks and deposits:

To Our Depositors:

We have found it desirable, in common with most banks, to adopt what is known as the deferred posting system in our bookkeeping department. Under this plan, checks which you have drawn upon us and which are presented to us for payment through various channels during the day are posted to your account in one run the following morning. This procedure applies likewise to your deposits, and in both cases they are posted under the date of receipt.

The only way this will affect you, the depositor, is that the preparation of your statement will be delayed one business day. In other words, your statement will not be ready for delivery until one business day later than at present. This new method has been put into effect, and we hope that it will not prove to be an inconvenience to you.

Yours very truly,
W. C. Black
President.

Work Is Underway New Sewer Plant And Water Line

Work has been started on the construction of the new sewer disposal plant for Canyon, states Mayor Andy Walsh. Bonds for construction of the plant were voted recently, and the money received for the construction.

In addition to the sewer plant, an 8-inch water line extension has been started starting at the Baptist Church and continuing east to 24th Street. The east part of town has not had adequate fire protection without this larger water line.

C-C Asks Opinion On a Business Education Week

"What do you think about a get-acquainted-program for all the business people and citizens in the Canyon area?" This is the question that Chamber of Commerce Secretary-Manager Glenn Waggoner wants answered. Such a program has been carried on effectively in other places and called Business Education Day.

Generally speaking, it is a sort of get-acquainted program. The people are invited to go through various business houses and learn something of the nature of that business. Whether or not the program is carried on depends strictly upon the people. In the event that it is, there will be a well planned procedure to follow.

The main portion of the program will consist of various trips through local business establishments. Prior to this there will probably be a short orientation or briefing period.

At present the question is: "Do the people want this program?" Although the program is being discussed by the Chamber of Commerce, the people will have the final word.

Those who want such a program should drop a card or letter to Glenn Waggoner of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce. Glenn says he desires all the ideas and sentiments the people have concerning such a program.

Public Invited to Texas Farm and Road Program

"All farmers, cattlemen, and business men are invited to hear Loys Barbour speak at the Canyon High School auditorium September 18," said Gus Dietz Monday. Dietz is president of the Randall County Farm Bureau and will be in charge of the meeting Thursday night, September 18. The program will begin at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Mr. Barbour is director of District Three of the Texas Farm Bureau. He will talk on the Thornton Road Program and Agriculture Conservation Program. If there is time he will possibly speak some on the question, "How are we going to finance the Texas State Government?"

There is no admission charge and the program promises to be one in which worthwhile information will be given. Each and every adult in the vicinity should have a working knowledge of the information about which Mr. Barbour will speak. The finest way to get it is by listening to an authority. One of the best opportunities you will have to hear this authority will be Thursday night, September 18, when Barbour speaks at the high school auditorium.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

Newspapers of Illinois Are Not Supporting Stevenson

We read a most enlightening and informative article the other day which was printed in a national magazine. This article was a review of the opinions of the newspapers of Illinois about Governor Stevenson.

It seems that when Governor Stevenson was a candidate for the chief executive of Illinois that he received liberal support from both the daily press and the weekly newspapers of Illinois. The reason: It seems that the people of Illinois were pretty well fed up on graft and extravagance in public office, and thought Stevenson was an honest man.

Nearly half of this newspaper support has faded out in his bid for President. Based upon his record in public office, Stevenson has not fared too well. The state had a good cash balance when Stevenson took office. This money has all been spent, with no good results.

Rather than being cleaned up in Illinois, the corruptionists have had a field day.

The fact that Stevenson has been so close to Truman; running with his active support and blessings, and adopting most of the Truman policies of government, has made the people suspicious.

Some back stage talk has been engaged in between Truman and Stevenson. The latter refers to the "Washington mess"; Truman retorts, "What mess?"

Maybe the partisan newspapers of Illinois are not reflecting the opinions of the voters of that state. And again, this may be the real situation.

Political Muddle of 1952 by Uncertain Issues of Campaign

Let it be remembered that this country newspaper man is not the only person in the United States who is thoroughly and completely muddled by the present political situation.

Support Governor Stevenson?

Vote for General Eisenhower?

Just about the time that we think we have this political muddle straightened out in our own mind, up bobs something which upsets our thinking. We are at a loss to know at this time just whom we shall support come November 3.

For awhile it looked like Ike. Then came the impressive information about Steve. But this has been knocked into a cocked hat, and Ike is again on top.

Are you affected in the same manner?

Lest you forget—we have no idea that the sun will stand still in the heavens; or that the moon will turn to green cheese regardless of whom may be elected.

We simply forget this fact.

This Candidate Stevenson — What Manner of Man Is He?

Just what manner of man is this candidate Stevenson?

That is just what the average voter is asking. A former citizen of Illinois stated the other day that no man could be elected to the high office of Governor of Illinois without having thrown in with the gamblers of Chicago, who are Democrats. Perhaps most of these fellows are in the Democratic party because they know the manner of men whom the Democrats usually run for public office; and again the gamblers of Chicago may have political opinions!! Just feature this!!!

At any rate it is hard to see how a man with such high ideals as Stevenson has been accredited with could go so far in a political career in such a short time without taking orders from the higher ups.

By their company candidates are known!

Candidates Must Sell Selves to Voters and Forget About Issues

Some fellow comes up with the idea that the people of America do not care much about the platforms of either the Democrats or the Republicans, or the foreign policies of either party. He says that the only thing that Eisenhower or Stevenson has to do is sell himself to the American voters.

Sounds like pretty common sense.

Our foreign policy has been kicked around and changed so much that very few people have the slightest idea as to what it may be at the present time. Secretary Acheson thinks that he knows; but if he does, he sure beats the balance of us.

This fellow says that Stevenson has the handicap of being intellectual and unknown to the average voter; that Eisenhower is handicapped by the fact that he has been a great military leader, and therefore has been out of touch with the common voter.

Perhaps he is right.

Perhaps individual worth is based upon the man and not the platform. At least, we seldom read what the platform advocates, or how the candidate looks upon the platform?

Tax Problems Nothing New in Texas, or in Any County

Randall County has had no great "tax disturbances." This is not true in many counties of the State.

Regardless of the merits of these protests, let it be recalled that those who work for the public are entitled to public wages. Those who sell to the public are entitled to a fair profit. Here in 1952 it naturally costs more to operate than it did back in 1940.

For that reason, taxes must go up according to the costs of operation.

Of course it is hard to see taxation eating up all of the profits of business, or taking away the last few dollars which the taxpayers have saved for a rainy day.

Taxation has always been a critical subject and will continue to be so long as public institutions must look to the taxpayers for support. And this will be always—so long as time lasts.

There are individuals in every community who care little for the respect of the people if they can get 100 per cent.

The white-collar crowd might as well organize or they will quit wearing white collars.

Shivers Will Not Solve the Tidelands Issue by Not Voting

Governor Shivers asked for the opinion of the voters on his support of Stevenson after the tidelands conference. Stevenson has spoken out against state ownership of tidelands oil, regardless of the treaty under which Texas joined the union.

Shivers admitted that he might go fishing and not vote in the general election.

To our way of thinking this will settle nothing. Those who refuse to support Stevenson because of his stand on the tidelands issue have a way opened by supporting Eisenhower. By staying at home, they cast a silent half vote for Stevenson.

The same is true of the Republicans who refuse to vote for Eisenhower simply because he has defeated Taft for the nomination. They are overlooking the fact that the voters of America were suspicious of Taft, regardless of his training and ability.

The tidelands belong to Texas, regardless of who may be elected President because they were a part of the treaty which admitted Texas to the Union.

If you want to dig up several billion dollars for support of the public schools of Texas while this money is divided by the spoils system which Stevenson proposes in Washington, just go ahead and stay at home on November 3. But don't holler about your tax bill!

What a Mess If All of the Proposed Plans Are Adopted

If all of the proposals are adopted for the inclusion of General Ike as a candidate for some kind of a Democrat on the General Election ballots in Texas, what a mess it will be!

We had as well declare that the people of Texas are afraid to vote the Republican ticket, and that the voters have a brass ring around their collective political necks which they cannot break.

Talk about a captive citizenship! We will be a shining example of a captive voting group if the people who want to vote for General Ike are afraid of voting for him on the Republican ticket.

So far as The Canyon News is concerned, we shall vote for whom we please come November. And it will be no one's business but ours when that time comes. If we believe that Eisenhower can clean up the mess in Washington, we may vote for him, regardless of the ticket upon which he runs.

How Do You Like to Be Dubbed Member of "Captive" Group

General Eisenhower did not pull punches on his trip to the South. He came out punching, and was wildly cheered by thousands of voters.

Will he get any votes as a result of his trip? We shall see.

At any rate, the South is no longer in the "captive" list of states. For the first time since the Civil War, a Republican candidate has invaded the South. Very few Democratic candidates have thought it necessary to "waste" time in campaigning this section.

Eisenhower had no sooner returned to New York than it was announced that Stevenson had long ago planned to invade the South! This is something else new on the political horizon. It sure does make one feel very important to think that both presidential candidates think enough of the South to bother about speaking here.

Furthermore, the GOP Vice Presidential candidate is going to speak in Amarillo and General Eisenhower may speak in Texas later in the campaign.

Wonder of wonders!

Are we still in the "captive" group? President Truman ignored the South in 1948, feeling certain that the South would support him, regardless of the booting around that he gave us.

Cussing the Supreme Court Is Popular Sport of Higher Ups

President Truman took a poke at the Supreme Court for the stand against his action in the steel seizure case.

Stevenson says that the President should have the authority to do just what the Supreme Court said that Truman was not empowered to do.

In the tidelands issue, Stevenson said that he never overruled the courts in their decisions.

It seems that there is very little difference between President Truman and Governor Stevenson in their attitude toward the Supreme Court.

And just who stacked the Supreme Court? None other than Harry S. Truman—if you may call the appointment of your friends the process of stacking the court!

Both the President and the Governor declare for dictatorship!

Repeal of Taft-Hartley Law Solves Nothing for the Nation

We were somewhat amazed to read that Governor Stevenson has recommended the outright repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law. In the same breath he admits that the law has not made slaves out of labor unions. The President insists that the law must be repealed—for that very reason.

Let it be remembered that Stevenson has said before that the Republicans would tear down all that the Democrats had accomplished, just for the sake of rebuilding something that they liked better.

Be it remembered that Stevenson has said that he would not be a captive of any group or organization which sought to use him.

What about the labor racketeers who are running President Truman?

Will they be conveniently shelved for the time being?

Where Is the Drouth in Texas?

Several weeks ago Governor Shivers designated certain counties of Texas as drouth areas and asked for federal aid to save the cattle. The federal government has been doling out money in other states.

Now the Governor wants to know when and where the money will be spent.

Chances are that no federal money will be sent to Texas unless Harry is sure that the boys will vote "right" in November.

Money is a powerful instrument in any election.

Gentility is often confused, with weakness.

U. POOR DIAGNOSIS

During a fire in the night, the tenants of an apartment hotel rushed into the street carrying their most prized possessions. One woman noticed that the gentleman who lived directly above her was carrying a large, covered bird cage. "What have you there?" she asked out of curiosity.

"That's my pet rooster," said the man.

The woman gasped and fainted. When she was revived she told her anxious neighbor. "I'm sorry I fainted, but you see, I've been under treatment by a psychiatrist for the past year because I kept hearing a rooster crowing!"

YOUNG DRIVER

South Bend, Ind. — Although Donald C. Newman is only three, he has been driving the family convertible for almost four months. Hiding the keys did little good. The boy would put the car in gear and press the starter. Finally, a neighbor called police when the child took off in her car. Then the little boy agreed with police that he would not drive any more until he is old enough to get a driver's permit.

AND WORKS!

The difference between an enlisted man and a second lieutenant is that the lieutenant starts at the bottom and works his way to the top, while the enlisted man starts at the bottom and works.

Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, seminary president: "Life is at best an unfinished symphony."

FIRST LESSON

A young man fresh out of law school appeared in a lower New York court to conduct his first case. Comporting himself in the most approved legal manner, he awaited his summons to the bar. Presently his case was called. Whereupon the fledgling lawyer laid his hat and coat on a bench and stepped forward.

"Young man," the judge exclaimed with a touch of asperity. "I would gather that this is your first appearance in this court."

"Yes, your honor," the youthful lawyer replied, wondering wildly what had revealed his inexperience. "I thought so," barked the judge. "Just move your hat and coat over where you can watch them, and proceed with the case."

Yes, He Does

Mrs. Fret: "I just know you don't care for me any more. You read the paper all the time and just ignore me."

Mr. Fret: "Dearest, I adore every hair on your head and my love grows deeper every day. Now, for Pete's sake, go away, and let me have a few minutes' peace."

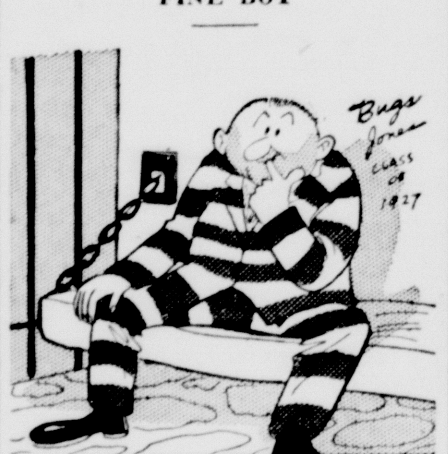

Instructions

Husband (to cook): "My mother-in-law is coming on a long visit tomorrow. I've made out a list of her favorite dishes for you."

Cook: "Yes sir."

Husband: "The first time you serve one of them, you're fired."

FINE BOY

Jane: "Yes, and I'm certainly surprised. I thought she was going to marry for money."

Moral Values

Mother: "Which apple do you want, Junior?"

Junior: "The biggest one."

Mother: "Why, Junior? You should be polite and take the little one."

Junior: "Well, mamma, should I lie just to be polite?"

CALCULATOR

Freddie's mother was buying fruit and vegetables from a huckster. As Freddie was eyeing the cherries, the huckster told him to take a handful. But Freddie said no.

"What's the matter? Don't you like them?" asked the huckster.

"Yes," replied Freddie.

"Then go ahead and take some."

Freddie still hesitated, whereupon the huckster put a generous handful in the boy's cap. After the huckster had driven on the mother asked: "Why didn't you take the cherries when he told you to?"

Freddie winked as he said: "Cause his hand was bigger'n mine."

CULINARY EXPERT

"Now, then, Tommy Brown," said the teacher, "I want to set you a little problem. Suppose there were five children and their mother had only four potatoes to share between them. She wants to give each child an equal share. How would she do it?"

"Mash the potatoes," said the boy.

Music Lover

"Now, now, Thompson, what's this customer's complaint?"

"It's not a complaint, sir. He wants two shoes that squeak in the same key."

Kills Snake Near Tomato Garden

Last week L. C. Ruthart, 611 8th Avenue, killed a rattlesnake near his cellar door that had nine rattles and was approximately five feet long. The snake was found near the garden in which Mrs. Ruthart had been gathering tomatoes.

In giving his report on the incident Mr. Ruthart sounded a note of alarm. At this time of year the snakes are seeking winter quarters. For this reason, many outside storm cellars may attract snakes of various species.

People who have gardens, storm cellars or weeds near their homes should be cautious about entering these spots. While it is true that most snakes in this vicinity are not poisonous, the rattlesnakes are. A bite from a rattlesnake could be very serious or even fatal.

Mens Bowling To Meet Thursday

Thursday, September 11, at 8 o'clock in the evening is the opening date for the men's bowling league at the Canyon Bowling Alley. Such teams as City Barber Shop, Taylor & Sons, and K Service that participated last year will also be represented again this year.

In addition to these, George's Gulf Service Station, Foster Insurance, Young's Drive In and many others have expressed a desire to sponsor teams this year.

All men, young and old, regardless of ability, are urged to be present for these league games. In order to have a successful league, all team's rosters should be filled the first night. This can only be accomplished by all men who are interested in bowling being present.

Teams will be equalized by the handicap method. This gives everyone a good chance at winning and to more thoroughly enjoy the bowling season.

Dinner guests in the home of Mrs. M. E. Cleavinger Monday evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cleavinger of Dimmitt and their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Cleavinger of San Diego, Calif., who are visiting in Dimmitt; Mrs. O. C. Axtel of Spring Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Dutch Cleavinger and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miller and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harter are here from their home in California where they have lived for several years. They are visiting in the home of his brother, Chas. Harter, and with friends.

Kim Standley, 11-month-old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Standley, is visiting in Canyon. Her home is in Clovis, New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Key and daughter, Sylvia, visited relatives in Ft. Smith, Ark., and Oklahoma City, Okla., last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Reedy of Tucson, Ariz., visited Miss Georgia Upfold Sunday. Mrs. Reedy will be remembered as Charlene Burch.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hefner of Amarillo spent last week in Madill, Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peckenpaugh visited in the parental Ben Peckenpaugh home in Perryton over the week end.

THE LOOK BEFORE THE LEAP

Mistress — I hope, you realize Mary, that matrimony is a serious matter.

Maid (about to be married) — Oh yes, mum, I ain't one to marry reckless like. I've been to two fortune tellers and a clairvoyant, and looked in a sign book and dreamed on a lock of hair and been to a palmist. And they all say it's all right.

WAY BACK WHEN

Perhaps the man who died at the reputed age of one hundred and sixty-five can remember when houses were so far apart that cabbage for dinner was strictly a family, not community matter.

COURT SCENE

Useless Partner — I'm afraid I played rather badly in that set, but my racket is a bit warped. I'll have to keep it in a frame.

She (bitingly) — You ought to keep it in a glass case.

A TASK UNFINISHED

"Aw, gee, pop. Do we really have to move next week?"

"Well, everything's arranged son. Why?"

"Well, there's a new kid on this block and I haven't licked him yet."

GRADUATED

Traveler (as train is about to leave) — Have I time to go to the gate and say goodbye to my wife?

Guard — Cawn't tell, sir. Depends on 'ow long you've been married, sir.

Annoyed at a slow moving motorist, the bus driver leaned on his horn until his passengers' ears rang. A 10-year-old boy seated behind him glared witheringly at the driver and piped: "What else did you get for Christmas?"

NEW HELICOPTER

The Navy has announced that it is building a new type of helicopter, apparently designed to war on submarines. The Navy's new flying windmill, still marked classified or secret, carries the Navy designation XHSS-1 and the commercial designation S-58.

LIFE IS LIKE THAT

"Well, Mrs. Waggs, did the election turn out the way you expected?"

"Oh, yes. I was afraid all the time it wouldn't go like I said it would. And it didn't."

Mutual savings banks show a steady rise in deposits.

SENTIMENTAL

One of the clerks at the employment agency was a bit of a wit, and he was preparing to gain a laugh at the expense of the next in the line.

"Where were you born?" he asked the man, a Scotchman.

"Glasgow," was the reply.

"Glasgow! Whatever for?" continued the funny one.

"I wanted to be near mother," said the other with devastating meekness.

Admiration

"My boy," said Mr. Smith to his young son, "when I first went into business I had not an asset in the world except my intelligence." "Gosh, Pop," the lad exclaimed, admiringly, "you sure must have had a lot of courage."

Purely Frank

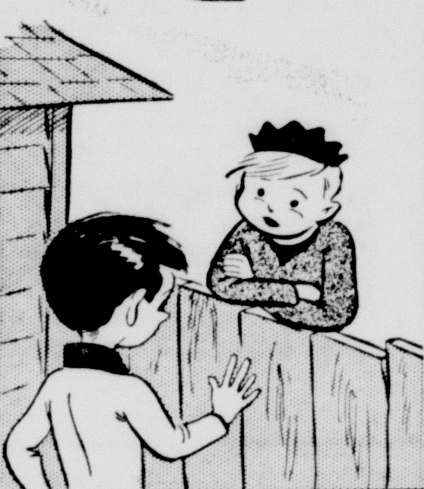

"What did you divorce your husband for?"

"Two hundred dollars a month."

Cutting Off

Customer: "Hiya, honey." Sales Clerk: "I'm sorry, sir, but you must be in the wrong place. This is a department store, not a beehive."

DIFFERENT

"Oh, I feel so bad 'cause Major's dead—my nice old collie!" sobbed Bobby.

"Shucks!" said Billy, the neighbor's boy, "My grandmother's been dead a week, and you don't catch me crying."

Bobby gave his eyes and nose a swipe with his hand, and looking up at Billy, sobbed: "Yes, but you didn't raise your grandmother from a pup."

Stickler

"Pa!" "What is it, Teddy?" "How many legs would you have to pull off a centipede to make him limp?"

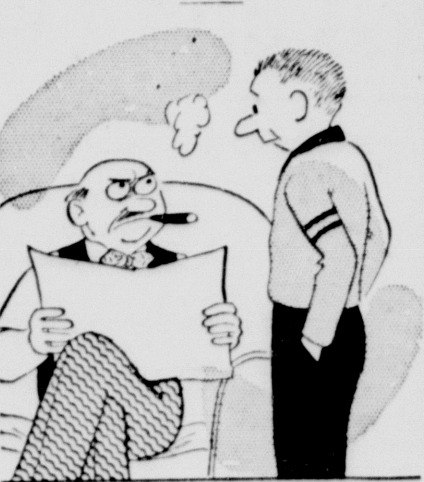

Planned Routine

Mother (to small son who is going to a party)—"Now, dear, what are you going to do when you've had enough to eat?" Little Tommy—"Come home."

How, Now . . .

Ma: "I wonder what's making the milk so blue?" Pa: "I just guess it's that old cow's disposition. She seems mighty low in spirits these days."

UN-WISE WORM

"You will never amount to anything," he continued, "unless you turn over a new leaf. Remember that the early bird catches the worm."

"How about the worm, father?" inquired the young man. "Wasn't he rather foolish to get up so early?"

"My son," replied the father solemnly, "that worm hadn't been to bed all night; he was on his way home."

WHIZ KID

Visitor—"How old are you, sonny?"

Boston Boy—"That's hard to say, sir. According to my latest school tests, I have a psychological age of 11 and a moral age of 10. Anatomically, I'm 7; mentally, I'm 9. But I suppose you refer to my chronological age. That's 8—but nobody pays any attention to that these days!"

Mrs. J. J. Douglass of Las Cruces, N. M., spent the week end here with friends. The Douglass family formerly lived in Canyon. Mr. Douglass died of a heart attack last month, stated Mrs. Douglass.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Huff of Mooreland, Okla., with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Huff of Booker, visited in the Wallace Huff home over the week end.

Mrs. Nancy Vigne of Webster Grove, Mo., has been visiting her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Al Vigne, and her new granddaughter, Alicia Annette, in the F. A. Pierce home.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hansen and son, John, of Columbia, Mo., visited with friends here Sunday night and Monday. Mrs. Hansen will be recalled as Alma Guenther, and her husband is head of the Art Department of Missouri University.

Egypt, Damascus, India, China Visited by Harrells on Trip Around World

(By Mrs. Newton Harrell)

CAIRO, EGYPT: August 15: There was quite a sand storm enroute from Nairobi to Cairo and we rode on top of the dust cloud. It was a little bumpy at times. We followed along the White Nile to where it joins the Blue Nile at Khartoum. It had overflowed much of the country south of Khartoum and there was water everywhere. You could see many trees and fields under water. We thought that we would surely get our feet wet at Khartoum but it was dry, although pleasantly cool. It's usually quite hot they say.

Cairo has been taken over by the Army under General Neguib. The land is being taken from the rich Shais and divided among the people, allowing them 30 years to pay for the land.

Polite to Americans

The taxi driver seemed very pleased with the new "set-up." The customs officials were polite and didn't even examine our luggage. The hotel personnel bent over backwards to welcome us. I'm glad we were not mistaken for Britishers as they are not very popular here.

We are staying at the Semiramis Hotel overlooking the Nile. When we came in last night the view from our balcony looked like Venice by moonlight. It looked like a huge square of water lined with twinkling lights. This morning I heard most peculiar sounds: donkeys braying; a sort of chant as some of the natives were going along the bridge which crosses the river here. I looked from the balcony and it was so different from the illusion of last night but still very lovely.

Muddy Nile River

The muddy Nile is boiling in this stage of high water. Several sailboats, small craft and excursion boats are on the river. On each side are terraces and green vegetation; large buildings of stone line each side through the city. The Nile is really Egypt's lifeline in a great desert.

Permanent army quarters occupy eight miles on the left side of the road all the way from the airport.

Abdel na I from the American Express was our dragoman (guide) for a tour of the city. He has a pocket full of letters from other Americans who have enjoyed his many tales about Moses, Pharaoh, the pyramids and other early Egyptian history. We rode the clumsy looking camels in the hot, dusty sunshine, while viewing the pyramids and sphinx. That is the right way to see these ancient ruins in the desert. Let the camels pad through the thick dust and heat. They don't mind. The giant pyramids lie just in the edge of the city.

King Tut's History

In the great museum we only have time to see a tiny portion, so we concentrate on King Tut, which, of course, gives the history of his generation. What a thrill it must have been to find such a complete history of a generation in such perfect state of preservation.

Abdel says that King Tut died at the age of 24 and was so well loved by the people that they gave him all these beautiful treasures as tokens of their love.

Many vaults, one inside the other, contained the mummy of King Tut. The mummy was also incased in many solid gold coffins, moulded to fit the body. His heart was cut into pieces and placed in different alabaster jars or urns, each inside of many boxes inlaid with ivory, gold and silver. He was buried with his treasures, his household utensils, food, furniture, etc. It is amazing to find that a long lost generation used so many things we think are new and modern.

"Lucky Beggar"

Abdel took us through a congested, dirty narrow maze of alleys and narrow streets to the "Lucky Beggar." It was a wonderful experience, but our purses are much lighter and our baggage heavier.

From the outside, this doorway is like a million others, with a big fellow sitting outside, lazily puffing smoke from a pipe which must be six feet long and curves down and up like a bazooka. He is smoking Persian tobacco through water (whatever that means). We see lovely leather bags, hassocks, brass and copper, camel's hair rugs, inlaid wood, beautiful materials at wonderful prices.

The manager is a friend of Abdel and we have native lunch with him. We go up narrow stairs — the walls are lined with rugs, copper and brass — and sit at a table. A little boy brings in a plate covered with flat pancakes, the size of the plate, hollow in the center for bread and a cheese sauce. We break off little pieces of bread and dip into the sauce (very good!). Each of us is brought a small plate of mutton, called Ish Kabobs, which has been broiled on a stick over charcoal and we eat with our fingers (native style).

There is a little bowl of fresh vegetables on the table but our host says vegetables are no good. He doesn't eat them. Of course we are glad because we like to eat cooked foods to be safe. The meat is delicious. We have a bowl of sweet, weak milk custard topped with a sprinkle of nuts, followed by coffee, downstairs in the store.

We sat on leather applied hassocks and the boy brought in a brass tray with tiny cups to the low round brass coffee table. Thick bubbly coffee was poured into our demitasse cups from long handled ladles. This coffee was so thick and black it was almost congealed. I drank the filtered water instead. This was quite a pleasant adventure.

Maze of Humanity

On our way in and out of the alley we followed Abdel closely, not wishing to be lost in the maze of humanity. The Middle East is where you see everything and anything: silversmiths, each with his own little shop or stall on the sidewalk; stalls hanging with beautiful old tin, pewter and brass pots; some stall keepers carving ivory, working with silver, inlaid work; shoe shops; butchered lambs and goats hanging in doorways; shops selling perfume; seaweed jewelry; men playing cards; barbering in the streets; dirty children; filth everywhere; all this in one grand jumble yet everyone seemingly happy. Donkeys or old horses were pulling carts and there were many American cars.

Dress of Men

Five times a day you hear the strange singing or chants as the priests call people to worship Mohammed. Most men wear the typical white robe or night gown and some with camel's hair, loose braided coats over the top. All wear a fez or turban. You see many Arabs with their robes and turbans with scarf underneath.

John the Baptist's head remains in a vault in the second largest mosque in the world in Cairo. The largest mosque being in Mecca where no Christian is allowed. I had no sleeves on my dress so I had to borrow the guide's coat before I could go inside the mosque in Cairo. A little boy tied large black slippers over our shoes and we slopped along inside the huge stone building open on one side and surrounded by a large courtyard enclosed with stone wall.

Worship of Moslem

The floor of the mosque was covered with oriental and reed rugs on which reclined and knelt many moslem men, women and children. They MUST wash their head, hands and feet before going into the mosque to kneel and salaam many times. Some were visiting, some praying and a group of priests were singing a chant, calling the people to pray. The call is made five times a day at 6 a. m., 12 noon, 5, 6 and 7 p. m. It is a weird tune and comes from every part of the city as the priests in various parts repeat the chant at the same moment.

Syria and Lebanon are both members of United Nations and of the Arab League, once a part of Turkish Empire. Arabic is the prevailing language, but there are numerous foreign elements, including Turks, Kurds, Armenians, Iranians, and Jews. Both countries are essentially agricultural. Lebanon has two large ports on the Mediterranean. There are very few miles of railways. Internal transportation is almost entirely by motor truck, bus and taxi, but the best communication with all the world is by air. A serious economic condition posing a menace to health and morale is the fact that some 750,000 Palestinians are now refugees in the Arab states.

Pleasant Hotel

Beyrouth in Lebanon is a novel resort where 35,000 people spent the winter last year, 15,000 of them coming from Egypt. Our hotel, St. Georges, is on the Mediterranean Sea, where we get a pleasant breeze as we sit on our balcony or eat on the terrace overlooking the sea. People are water skiing, swimming and enjoying the sun. *We hear Arabic, French and music from the old masters played on the beaches, on the terrace, and coming over the radio. We see fellow Americans and many other nationalities.

The bazaars are as picturesque as the ones in Cairo and almost as smelly.

The Hotel St. Georges is very modern and clean, with real little bell boys running the elevators and carrying luggage. The elevators only hold three people by squeezing in and you can read all the paper while you wait for it to slowly climb to the fourth floor. It's hard to make the waiters understand, but we have excellent meals and will carry with us the picture of St. Georges on the Mediterranean.

One of Seven Wonders

We visited the ruins of Baalbeck in Lebanon. It is believed to be one of the oldest cities of the world. Historians mention it in the second century of the Christian Era. The huge temple with its walls enclosing a city was built and rebuilt by Romans and Greeks.

Baalbeck was the cradle of great men celebrated in letters and science. It is one of the Seven Wonders of the World. The great columns, massive stones, architecture, carvings and acreage covered is amazing. They say that perhaps 150 pound pillars were brought from Egypt. Most of the stone was taken from a quarry near the site. From Baalbeck we travel through farming country, where wheat is thrashed by oxen and horses driven by Arabs who live in little villages and walk or ride burros or camels to work morning and evenings.

Life of Arabs

We see Bedouins (Arabian nomads) from the desert with their camel caravans and small herd of goats bedded down for the night in a spot where nothing is planted. Many vegetables, melons, fruit, cotton and corn is grown in this rich valley.

Our dashing, daring driver sped us over beautiful mountains on our way to Damascus. The wild drivers toot their horns continuously and rush madly through the narrow streets teeming with people, carts, cars and street cars. There are few cops, but I couldn't figure what even these were doing. I think they whistle to keep from being run over themselves. Traveling through hot, dry country we pass an Armenian refugee town, spend a half hour in the hot sun while the guide gets us through customs from Lebanon to Syria, a passport is a valuable article over here!

Damascus Has 700,000

Damascus is green where a river separates into five channels to irrigate the town. Many of the towns are built on the hillsides and the houses seem to be carved out of the rocky hill. They look lovely at night with light scattered all over.

With a population of 700,000 this city has a University and 300 small schools. Seventy per cent of the population is literate. There are 350 mosques.

Down among some old stone ruins where dirty Jewish families were living, we entered an underground place of worship where Paul was annointed by Annanias and became a Christian.

Religious Setting

We also visited the church where Paul was led down from the window in a basket to escape to Rome from the Jews who were trying to kill him because he had become a Christian.

These two pilgrimages took only a few minutes but the guides got a commission from some of the Indian traders to bring us into their store and help sell us some of their goods. I have never seen so much pressure selling. The bell-hops fight over who carries the luggage. Four or five try to get in on a tip.

Fine brocades of silver and gold thread are woven in small factories (hand-loomed) in Damascus. In Beirut oriental rugs are quite reasonable. You can get some beautiful things at fair prices but it doesn't take long to get too much weight or to spend too much money. The American dollar is gladly accepted anywhere, but not our silver.

Presbyterian Mission

Dr. Pritchard of the Amarillo First Presbyterian Church gave us some names of the Presbyterian mission staff in different places. We called Rev. James W. Willoughby of the mission staff here in Beirut and he came down for lunch and a visit at the hotel. It was quite interesting to have a first-hand account of the country and conditions.

Beirut has a population of 600,000 and they were all over the roads, in the coffee houses and everywhere Sunday afternoon. You see such a variety of people and style of dress! The Arab with the white scarf over his head and ring cord pushed down over that, dressed in dirty white robe. Some wear a white or red fez or turban. Most men and women wear wrap around skirts. Some wear baggy pants. Others wear white European clothes.

Our flight from Beirut to Karachi with over-night stopover via "Air France" was cancelled so we had an extra day in dear old Beirut with a swim in the Mediterranean and reservations on good old Pan American the next day.

Arrive in Calcutta

We left Beirut at 10 p. m. last night with one hour stop at Basra on the Persian Gulf, Karachi, Pakista, and New Delhi, India. We arrived in Calcutta on the Ganges Delta the next night about 8 o'clock.

Tuesday, August 19: The monsoon rains have been on for some time and the Ganges has overflowed, flooding much of the country. Every inch of land from New Delhi and East is under cultivation. There are small villages, very close together and no one lives on the farms.

The clouds were high and low, no dodging them, but the bumps were few, thank goodness, although there were a few sharp drops. I constantly thank God for those wonderful planes and the boys who fly them.

A little Indian girl about eight years old sat with Ed. She had a ring in one side of her nose which I know must have bothered the little thing. She was dressed in the usual Indian costume: a slim sheath of a dress, covered over and wrapped about by a thin filmy veil. She was loaded down with wide gold colored bracelets and necklaces. Her mother, who sat in front of Ed, wore a black costume with black veil which covered her face. Quite a few women still keep their faces veiled and after a peek at one or two of them Ed said he could see why.

JERUSALEM

In our itinerary I left out Jerusalem. Mr. and Mrs. Honnell from Memphis, Tenn., rode in our car from Damascus to Beirut and they said things were in a distressing condition. There was a barbed wire fence running through the middle of Jerusalem with soldiers everywhere armed to the teeth. The main road to Damascus and Beirut was closed and they had traveled over a very crooked mountain road to get to Damascus.

Thousands of refugees fill the towns and countryside. Relief is given to many. They are not allowed to work as that would cause the native population to be without jobs. There are not many Bedouins left as the government encourages them to work the land and live on it. The people in the Near East live in small towns. I imagine for protection.

Americans are not very popular because of interferences that have been made in affairs of this section. Nothing has been settled. No one knows where he stands.

CALCUTTA, INDIA

more and more people in increasingly worse conditions. But we still were not prepared for Calcutta. India and Pakistan have been quarreling with each other over economic and religious differences before and since World War II and refugees from each country overflow into the other; then Moslems versus the Hindus!

When they divided the country this left India with mostly desert country and few industries and overrun by Hindus driven from Pakistan and in a pretty bad state.

West Pakistan has its big rice export trade and East Pakistan its jute which formerly went through Calcutta, making them independent economically despite the many Moslem refugees who were driven out of India.

Lower India including Bombay where many people are Moslems may join Pakistan after Nehru's death. England gave them their freedom and tried to help them work out a peaceful solution, but they just won't try to cooperate. When they meet with the United Calcutta's population after the war was increased by two million Hindus without homes.

War Among Tribes

Boundaries and religious differences in all of these countries keep them constantly poor, trying to maintain a large army while feeding the hordes of desperate people who require State aid.

It looks as if some country, and the United States is an accomplice, is inciting these people to war among themselves to keep them busy and helpless so they do not become too prominent in world affairs.

Each country has its different language, monetary system, and religion, customs regulations and controls, making it difficult and almost impossible to secure trade the trade in dollars which they need and want.

The religious record furnishes the best history of the background of each country as they rise and fall. As each country becomes over-populated and strangled by controls it falls by the wayside as new territories rise with freedom of enterprise and religion.

After having encircled the globe with such ease and speed, with a peek into many strategic places, hearings the rumblings of unrest and some of the underlying causes (from this little bird) it looks entirely possible that we will at sometime be "one world."

Makeshift Homes

We arrived at Dum Dum Airport, Calcutta, around 10 p. m. An hour is good time to get through customs in these countries.

From the airport to our hotel, on each side of the road or street were Indians living in chicken coops or makeshift houses of any material they could find. As we came to the larger flats and business houses in every block there were from six to fifty Indians sleeping on the sidewalks.

In every doorway, every alley with head to the wall or lying against the wall or double and triple lines they filled the blocks. Sometimes there is just a narrow walk between two rows of heads and feet. You wouldn't dare walk down the street at night. Right up to our hotel door they filled every block, leaving only a space in front of the door. These people are refugees, millions of them without homes who overflow Calcutta.

The dress of the Indian is a large white piece of cheesecloth, which he wraps around and pulls up between the legs, tucking the ends into the belt before or aft. Many of them manage to have some kind of undershirt or shirt.

The bellboys slept in front of the hotel so they could be near their work. They had no homes anyway. Some of them had something to spread down to lie on. A few had cots they had made by lacing ropes across a frame.

Boys After Tips

The Great Eastern Hotel is a large, rambling structure containing many Indian shops. We were smilingly greeted by anxious shop keepers as we walked by several times each day to our rooms. Labor is cheap with all the millions who are needing jobs, so in the large dining room alone there are 60 waiters watching your every move.

Ed needed some sugar for coffee and I called to my waiter a couple of times without getting any response. (Of course he didn't understand English!) Newton said, "I'll attract his attention." Then he put his hand into his pocket. All eyes followed the motion expecting to see him pull out a tip.

When you arrive, about seven boys run for your baggage; three clean out your room and all expect tips. They are not so particular as the New York boys. They are satisfied with anything.

The dining room was air conditioned and could easily serve 400 people. They served good meals, cheaply, with music and dancing in the evening. We drank bottled water in all these places.

Hotels Comfortable

When we first reached our rooms I didn't know whether to sit up and watch our things and bring Ed in with us or go to bed as we should. After looking around we bolted the doors and closed the shutters. With adjoining rooms up three floors from the ground we felt safe enough. There were a number of people living in the alley under our windows, cooking over a few coals on the ground, sleeping on a shelf or piece of tarp, anywhere to have a roof or eaves of a house over their heads.

Along each side of the streets every niche, pigeon hole, stall or shop was filled with Indians, layer upon layer of them, selling something, living and eating there.

I don't know how that many people can find enough scraps to keep alive. Many are fed by the Government and many are just alive.

Bodies Cremated

We visited the crematory where they cremate the dead and there was only one body about consumed and one other ready for cremation. Usually there are 40 or 50 a day. The guide wanted us to come back next day when he would show us more. We had seen quite enough!

The Hoogly River which runs through Calcutta, is a tributary of the Ganges. There is much shipping with many big ships loading and unloading here. People were in the river bathing and filling a bottle with Holy Water to take home to drink. There are two feet drainage ditches along the road in most places with running river water for sewage. These ditches serve as the full sewer system. Fresh water is piped through the city with openings at various places where people bathe, wash their clothes or secure water.

Girls Marry Young

The religious Hindu and Moslem both allow polygamy and the girls marry very young. Little girls who look to be only 12 or 13 have a red dot on their foreheads and a stripe down the middle part of their hair to designate they are married.

Moslems have one god, Mohammed. They believe in reincarnation and the more male descendants the better chance in the next world; therefore, they marry as children and raise as many males as possible.

Sacred Cows of Hindus

The Hindus have had as many as three million gods and they eat no meat. They, too, believe in reincarnation and think they might eat their brothers. Cows are sacred and allowed to roam the streets or walk down the sidewalks; lie there or in the road. You go around them! People who do not have enough food for their own babies feed the cows. The little shop keepers give them something when they come along. The people drink milk and use the cow dung for fuel.

Buddahists in Malaya don't believe in God, but in reincarnation. Buddha is their symbol of purification, freeing their minds of worldly desires and thoughts.

Each religion has its own elaborate and beautiful array of temples which have cost millions of hours of slave and cheap labor to build and keep in constant state of repair. They show the culture and way of life of these different races in the various corners of the earth.

Modern American City

Bangkok is a modern city of 750,000 oriental people who dress and think much like Americans. Many wear short pants and white clothes in this tropical climate. I can't believe there are that many people in the town but I guess the houses along the water way are part of the city and the river is a very busy place.

The streets are filled with cars, many American made, and bicycles pulling a two wheeled rickshaw. There are supposed to be 15,000 of them. The shops have anything you want to buy.

They have a government similar to Great Britain. The people are busy, happy and economically secure.

They live along the waterways and raise their crops of rice and vegetables, transporting their produce up and down the rivers.

From the air you see a patch work of green or flooded rice fields crisscrossed with rivers and canals. Their houses all along the banks on either side are nearly hidden by trees which line the waterways.

Taking a boat trip down the river early in the morning we got another view of these orientals beginning their day's work.

Every inch of space along each bank has a frame building off the ground a few feet with sides open and people living there with their farms behind the houses. Their teeth, doing their morning Thousands were bathing, washing toilet, washing clothes, men bathing babies, swimming in the river. Many were eating bowls of popped rice for breakfast, feeding the hundreds of yellow robed young priests who paddled along in their canoes to accept bowls of uncooked rice from people who could afford and wanted to give. These priests were healthy looking. They seemed to know just where to stop.

Trade Is Brisk

There was a beehive of activity, boats loaded with produce, wood, coconut, sugar, flowers, loaded barges, three or four tied to one boat, being towed in — all going to market.

Our guide says the elephants still bring teakwood out from the northern part. Rubber is another important export.

Their religion is Buddhism. There are 300 Buddhist temples in Bangkok. We visited one which was very elaborate. The temple was enclosed by a wall inside of which were many houses and pagodas for the different priests and worshippers.

The King's Palace covers a square mile. Enclosed by a wall, its many ornate buildings and pagodas are covered with steep, slanted roofs, tiled and in many tiers. The walls are covered with in and without by many millions of pieces of tiny colored glass and porcelain in beautiful designs. The doorways are guarded by giant statues and the many heavy stone dragons resting in the courtyard were used by the old Chinese ships as balast.

We saw "The King and I," a top hit in New York. The story is about a school teacher by the name of Anna who taught the fourth King of Siam's son about Abe Lincoln and our way of life. Here we saw the little open air house in the palace grounds where she had taught the royal children.

The fifth king, the little boy whom Anna taught, is called the "Great King of Siam" for he is the one who modernized Siam and gave it a sound economy.

Modern Hotel

The Oriental Hotel here is a tropical looking place with very high ceilings, open air dining room, open hallways, floors covered with matting. Our bathroom has wire screen for the ceiling, swinging doors that you can nearly see over and under, and besides the ordinary bath fixtures a huge stone jar filled with water under a faucet.

Our food in all these far eastern countries has been wonderful. We have more than we can eat of well seasoned, good food. We enjoy the fresh fruit which they serve at the end of every meal.

Singapore: On board BOAC (British Aircraft) from Singapore to Hong Kong.

Singapore

Singapore is a British free port of one million population; two-thirds of which are Chinese, on a strategic sea lane of traffic. It is the seventh largest city in the British Commonwealth. It is an excellent shelter for ships and its greatness comes from its being in close touch with the spice islands, the East Indies, whose produce are so much in demand and yet on the sea routes along which Malaysians, Chinese and Indians have to move in search of trade or privacy.

Sir Stamford Raffles in 1819 saw the value of this strategic harbor and trading center and, as a servant of the East Indian Company, was able to influence the British to secure a treaty to gain sovereign rights to make Singapore a free port, where ships traveling to China could be protected from weather and pirates. Raffles Hotel, Raffles Institute, center of town called Raffles Place, and many other monuments honor his memory as the creator of racial and economic freedom here.

A majority of the people are employed in commerce, large import and export firms or small scale family shops. There are quite a few beautiful five or six story business and government buildings, but the greater part of the buildings is the small two story shops owned by Chinese and Indians with the family living over the shop.

Singapore is on an island 27 by 14 miles and is connected to the mainland by a mile long causeway.

Only 16 miles north to Johore the Communists shoot up the trains and cars with machine guns occasionally. There are troops all along the route to Johore and the police are strong in the city of Singapore.

Has Much Trade

The city supports 21 banks and 17 sporting clubs. The Singapore Club for Europeans has a huge pool and is a lovely country club where many Europeans spend their leisure time.

Main exports are rubber, tin, coconut oil, sago, pineapple and copra. Rubber utilizes the most native labor in the Malays and 60 per cent of the rubber exported goes through the port of Singapore.

There are hundreds of ships of all sizes in the 30 miles of harbor. It's fascinating to watch the big ships coming in and going out, loading and unloading, and to see the sailors in town.

Indians and Chinese display cheap articles for sale, also food and drinks which the natives enjoy. Their wares were neatly and attractively displayed on boxes or on the ground. People like to be out at night. It is cooler then.

The guide stopped to show us through a unique Chinese home. The family was sitting around while we viewed their treasures. The man had made a fortune from Tiger Balm (a medicine for headaches). He had a marvelous collection of jade displayed in cases throughout his home. The gardens were filled with grotesque caves made of cement with figures of tigers and other animals and birds for decoration.

Brazzil Has List Of Hay Prospects

Hay to relieve drouth-hit cattle in this area is not yet in sight. So far there are 73 counties in Texas, none in the Plains area, approved for emergency relief. Most of the counties approved for emergency aid lie in central and western counties that have been suffering from drouth for two or more years.

The emergency aid program is set up to save foundation herds of cattle of both dairy and beef herds. Other counties will probably be added in the near future. Although feed, especially hay, is extremely scarce in this area other parts of Texas are much harder hit.

While the feed shortage continues here other states are reaping abundant harvests. A recent survey conducted by the Texas A&M College Extension Service in five states shows that four of these five states have surplus hay.

John Brazzil, Randall County Agent, has a list of the states and counties in four states with surplus hay. These states are Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, and Wisconsin. Top quality hay in some of these states is selling for $20 to $24 per ton compared with around $50 per ton here.

So far no reduction in transportation rates has been made to drouth areas to enable cattlemen here to buy needed hay. As the drouth continues, this may be possible.

If anyone is interested, a list of counties with hay to sell and the agricultural agents in these counties may be had in the office of the Randall County Agent.

Britain Studio Is 39 Years Old

"Now is a good time to start giving some thought to personalized Christmas cards," Pat Britain said last week. The Britain Studio, a 39-year-old firm, offers this service. Personalized Christmas cards are only one of Pat's specialties. These cards can be made upon a photograph of the sender or a photo of an entire family.

This type of card is one of the warmest greetings that can be sent at Christmas time. They can be made from a negative or a photograph, or Pat can make you a special photograph if you desire it. Pat also does top quality portraits, photographs, kodak and commercial work. Another big specialty of the Britain Studio is Jumbo Prints from your own camera snapshots.

Next May 16 will make 40 years that the Britain Studio has been in business in Canyon. Pat's mother and father started the business making small pictures from a photo car. The car was located where The Canyon News building now stands. Later the studio was moved into four rooms above the First National Bank.

Present location of the Britain Studio was purchased from M. S. Lusby. New equipment has been added and the building and studio have been modernized. Today this studio, that has a very colorful history, is located one block south and one block west of the post office, just diagonally from the Presbyterian Church. Adv.

Plans Being Laid for Scout Camporee

Preparation is now being made for the Canyon Boy Scout Camporee to be held here on October 3, 4 and 5. The public is invited to do every thing possible to help create interest in this activity.

Bulletins have been distributed to the leaders of the Boy Scouts in the Llano Estacado Council inviting them to take part in this big camporee. It is the hope of scout workers that the people of this area will help promote the camporee and that it will become an annual affair.

It is believed that it will be one of the biggest scouting events to be held in Canyon. Those taking part in the planning of it are very enthusiastic but need help and encouragement from the Canyon people. People are expected to cooperate as those questioned about the camporee have agreed that it is a good thing.

Scout workers are seeking all the help they can possibly find. Those asked to lend a hand should find a way to do so in order to make the camporee a success.

This week end the scout leaders and some of the boys are going to New Mexico for some timber. This timber will be donated by District Forest Ranger J. A. Rodriguez of New Mexico. This timber will be the material from which the Monkey Bridge and tower will be constructed. These are activities that the scouts here could not engage in without this material.

Troop 66 Scouts Win Swim Meet, Try More Events

Canyon's Boy Scout Troop 66 won the Don Harrington swimming meet over Troop 68 from Plainview, 14 to 2. In the Junior Group Leonard Miller won free style; Roy Hunter won breast stroke, and James Young won the backstroke.

Jimmy Joyner was the senior group winner of the free style. John Cross won breast stroke; Charles Joyner won side stroke and Bill Harrison won backstroke.

Both junior and senior teams won their four man relay. In the junior relay Roy Hunter, Craig Hinger, Alan Hanks, and Leonard Miller won in two minutes and nine seconds. Senior relay team, Jimmy Joyner, Bill Harrison, Chas. Joyner and John Cross won in two minutes and 54 seconds. These races and relays were on a 40 yard basis.

The Plainview boys, who were used to swimming only 20 yards, were described as good sportsmen. They did not hesitate in taking the double length distance although they had not been coached for it. Neither had they been coached in racing dives and turns such as the Canyon troop received from Carroll Vaughan. In the relay races the last man for Plainview swam even when Canyon had already won. Mr. Calhoun, Plainview scoutmaster of Troop 68 was said to be handling an excellent group of scouts.

Saturday the scouts will participate in the big council meet at Don Harrington. Events start at 3:30 and the public is invited. All scouts and explorers are invited to participate even though some swim better than others.

Troop 13 of Amarillo will have 33 boys participating in the council swim and will not repeat a boy in any event. The Canyon troop needs 11, 13, 14 and 17 year old boys.

Boys of these four ages who have been scouts or explorers or intend joining this winter should contact Mrs. E. W. Pettitt, Phone 204, or be at the First Christian Church Saturday at 3 o'clock and transportation will be provided to the camp.

History of Loan Savings Companies Given at Rotary

C. B. Beasley, of the First Federal Loan Association of Amarillo, spoke Tuesday at the Rotary Club luncheon, giving a history of these organizations. There are 6,000 such organizations in the United States, with about 4 million loans. Approximately one-third of the home loans are carried by these associations.

These associations are owned locally and managed by home people, but are supervised by either the federal government or the state government under which they are chartered. All loans are made on a monthly basis. These associations are required to keep 6 per cent of their resources in a cash reserve.

Visitors were Aiken B. Connor of San Antonio; Joe Gibson, Dr. Sam Johnson, Gerald Green, all of Canyon; Joe Rogers, J. E. Bowman, Guy Carlander, Art Cox, E. C. Wagner, all of Amarillo.

Dear Perry Lou:

We have had a merry chase here at Lazy K — the new hired man stole the jeep. We found the jeep, but not the hired man! Nancy is all excited about clothes (I think she should be thinking of higher education), but then, I am just a mother and old fashioned. Sure am glad I have you to depend on to find the right clothes for her.

She has been knee-deep in the magazines, and she has been showing them to me — and aren't the styles reminiscent of the "Roaring Twenties" — or am I giving away our ages? Nancy says styles this year make you look like a woman — and she is so right.

Have to get Nancy ready to leave — wish I were coming with her — but she will see you soon.

Love and kisses,

CUB SCOUTS, DEN 4, DISCUSS EARLY SENDING OF MAIL

Den 4 met Monday, September 1, at the home of their den mother, Mrs. Stuart Condon. Theme for the month of September will be "The Mail Goes Through." A discussion was held on early methods of sending the mail. The cubs worked on house signs for their individual homes. A new cubbing song was learned. Eight cubs were present.

On Monday, September 8, the cubs of Den 4 met to continue their study of the mail. Bob Condon opened the meeting by leading the Pledge of Allegiance. The boys sang their new song. Each cub made himself a mailbox to be hung on the clubhouse wall. The boys plan to write letters to each other to put in their boxes. Some of the letters will be written in invisible ink, and some will be written in code. The writing of codes is one of the Cub Scout electives.

Refreshments were served to Ronnie Reynolds, Phil Pennington, Mike McAtee, James Boyd, Bob Condon, Eddie Pettitt, Debs Harris, Jimmy Fulcher, Jimmie Killingsworth, Eugene Blasdel, Duane Clay, Dewayne Kiser, Jesse Will Sheets, and David Cole.

Hagen Circus Is Slated for Two Shows Saturday

Intrepid aerial artists, equilibrists and gymnasts who scoff at the laws of gravity and dauntlessly dare disaster . . . animals subjugated by kindness and patience to the will of men . . . lovely bespangled ladies and joyful jesting clowns . . . riotous colors . . . pulse-quickenning music . . . peanuts . . . popcorn . . . cotton candy.

These are some of the perennial allurements of Circus Day, and all of them are still found at the Great Hagen Brothers 3-Ring Circus which comes to Canyon under the direct sponsorship of the Volunteer Fire Department. Performances are scheduled for 2 p. m. and 8 p. m., Saturday, September 13.

The Great Hagen Brothers 3-Ring Circus promises new acts, new wardrobes, and the finest of circus features in their 1952 program. Heading the list of famous names on the circus roster are such acts as: The Famous Ring Conleys—Eight Bareback Riders; Miss La-Lain, premiere aerial artist; the Internationally-famous Con Cello, tight wire walker; the Aerial Ballet of beautiful girls at the top of the arena; DIXIE, World's Largest Performing Elephant; Clark's Canine Comedians; the Gordens, Double Trapeze Act; a group of the funniest clowns enroute, headed by the well known comedian, Speed Hart, an equestrian display of shetland ponies, as well as the Hagen Brothers Circus Black and White Liberty Horses.

These are just a few of the many features presented in the two hour performance of Hagen Brothers Circus, and tickets may be purchased in advance through the members of the Canyon Fire Department.

Rules Given To Conserve Teeth Of the Children

One-half of all children between three and nine have never been to a dentist, according to surveys, and State Department of Health tags that as one reason why there are some 284 million cavities in the teeth of American kids between those ages.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, recommends these four rules as a method of getting children into sound dental health habits:

1. A well-balanced diet with consumption of sweets kept to a minimum. Sugar in excessive quantities produces the destructive mouth acids that cause dental decay.

2. Proper tooth brushing, beginning at an early age. This means brushing the teeth within ten minutes after eating.

3. Early detection and cure of dental defects. This will prevent larger troubles later. Neglect may produce serious dental problems which will continue throughout life.

4. Either access to drinking water from a community water system containing the proper amount of fluorides for tooth decay prevention, or application of sodium fluoride to the teeth at periodic intervals. Children who drink fluoridated water from birth have from one-half to two-thirds less tooth decay than those who drink fluoride-free water.

Americans as a whole are highly susceptible to tooth decay by virtue of their diet, the state health officer points out. As a matter of fact, dental authorities say, this country has often been called "a nation of dental cripples."

They urge all parents to realize that so-called "baby teeth" are vital to good dental health in adulthood.

Battle to Hold Senate Is Issue For Two Parties

There are certain important phases of the coming presidential contest that have been obscured by all the whoop-de-doo over choosing the top candidates, and the tremendous amount of attention that has, quite naturally, been centered on the views and personalities and backgrounds of General Eisenhower and Governor Stevenson. One of these phases is the battle for control of the Senate.

At the present time, the Republicans hold 46 of the Senate seats, and the Democrats 50. The catch, from the Republican point of view, is that 20 of their seats are in contest this coming November as against only 15 for the Democrats. It is generally considered that five of these latter seats are too firmly held to offer the GOP a chance. So, if they are to gain a majority, the Republicans must take three of the other nine and hold all the seats they now have.

Thus, a great deal of hard work will be done at the state level in an effort to put the whole ticket over. The hope is that the Eisenhower campaign will gather so much momentum, and that the personal and political appeal of the General will be so great, that he will be able to carry even relatively weak Senatorial candidates with him. The Democrats, of course, hope exactly the same thing for Governor Stevenson.

It would seem that both parties have done a pretty good job in bridging the rifts that developed at the conventions. It's quite a trick, for instance, to reconcile such divergent figures as Democrats Byrd and Lehman on the one side, and Republicans McCarthy and Morse on the other. The Democrats have suffered the most from defections—for the first time in many a moon the Republicans have a chance to break the Solid South and pick up some electoral votes there.

However, it is probable that as time rolls on more and more of the holdouts will return to their respective folds. There is nothing a politician likes less than having his party out of power—which means out of patronage—and the vast majority of them will play follow the leader regardless of differences.

A good many political writers think that the Democrats are working on one issue which could very easily backfire. This is the argument that Governor Stevenson has the requisite experience for the presidency, by virtue of his stewardship in Illinois, and that General Eisenhower has not, by virtue of the fact that he has spent his life in the Army.

David Lawrence answered this in U. S. News & World Report when he wrote "Today the head of a vast military establishment does not himself lead troops in the field—he has field commanders for that purpose . . . His task is planning and over-all administration . . . He must know how to pick capable subordinates and how to delegate responsibility."

"In an inter-allied operation such as was called for in the invasion of the continent of Europe, it was necessary for the commander-in-chief of allied forces to be a diplomat, a kind of secretary of state abroad . . . Mr. Lawrence elaborated on this in some detail, and said that General Eisenhower's experience is exactly what the country needs, especially in an emergency. Many an influential commentator holds that view.

WAGS WE CAN DO WITHOUT

The businessman was fast asleep in his hotel room when the phone rang. It rang for a full minute before he awakened. He picked up the receiver sleepily.

"Long distance calling!" an operator sang out. "Here's your party."

"Okay," yawned the businessman. "Hello!"

"What's that?" cried the voice at the other end.

I said "hello!"

"Oh," said the voice. "Hello!" The businessman paused.

"Well," he demanded. "What do you want?"

"Nothing," answered the voice. "Absolutely nothing."

The other saw red.

"What!" he roared. "If you didn't want anything, why do you call me at three in the morning?"

"That's simple," replied the voice cheerily. "The night rate is cheaper!"

Berkeley, Calif. — John H. Kilbuck was a researcher on dehydrated foods at the University of California Agricultural Experiment Station. Called to active duty with the Navy, Kilbuck was assigned—to his same job at the University of California, doing the same thing.

The voice of radio can never supplant the newspaper. Where but in cold type could we have learned that Tjarda van Starckenburgh Stachouwer resigned in Java?

Just Between You, Me and . . . the Gatepost

(By Lawrence Hunnicutt)

Cool weather has ushered in the autumn season for the year of 1952. Frank Kimbrough, Coach of the West Texas State College Buffalo football squad, got started a little early by getting his football team out on the field for some light passing Saturday afternoon, August 30. Gort Rushmer was also on hand that afternoon to get individual pictures of the boys.

Up at the high school Coach Floyd Murry waited until Monday to start the Eagles workout. The boys had two workout sessions that day and then on Tuesday, the first day of school, they started their regular workouts of one period per day.

The weatherman has promised that our hottest weather is over for this year even though there still may be some warm days. Perhaps the men will get a rest before the leaves turn yellow and fall to the lawn for raking. Then, too, while the season of activity approaches, many sportsmen are probably cleaning guns and preparing for the thrills of the hunt.

We learned from Luke Miller last week that there may be a small flying field for light aircraft located in the Canyon vicinity soon. There are a number of people in the vicinity who will be happy to hear about this. Several local people fly light planes and it would be a great convenience to them if an airport suitable for their needs was located here. We hope to get more information about this for our next edition.

Dutch Cleavinger is still happily discussing his trip to St. Louis. While he was there he got a whiff of some hops, you know, those things that give beer its flavor. Dutch says he has never been a beer drinker but after smelling the hops he's sure that he doesn't have to taste beer to know he won't like it.

Two big events are going to happen in Canyon in the near future. You'll not want to miss either one of them. One is the Hagen Brothers Circus that will be in town Saturday. It's being brought here by the Fire Department and when you enjoy the entertainment of the circus you'll also be helping the local firemen. For an advance ticket see or call Bill Sternberg or Clark Jarnagin.

The other big event will occur on October 29th. This is the date the big Marine Band will play two concerts at West Texas State College auditorium. This is one of the world's oldest and foremost symphonic bands. When you hear it you're hearing music by the finest artists in the country. The band has been called "The President's Own" because since it was approved by President John Adams in 1798, it has been the official White House Band.

One of the things we noticed last week was that people were very busy after having enjoyed the Labor Day holiday. There's a strange paradox about holidays. People will work twice as hard before and after one in order to get a day off. Guess that's one of the things that puts a little spice in life though.

Talking about spice brings us right down to the spice of this column. Yep, you guessed it, it's time for that department, chirps of wisdom.

Laugh and grow fat appears to be fine advice until you try it and succeed.

It's rarely wise to argue with a fool. Bystanders won't know which is which.

Here's one for the books. Economists report that Jones, the fellow everyone is trying to keep up with, is having trouble keeping up with himself.

There may be a destiny that shapes our ends, but our middles are our own "chewing."

To err is human, but when the eraser wears out before the pencil, it's time to do something toward improvement.

MORE THAN WORDS

"I don't like your dog. Every time I come he barks and I don't trust him. I'd come oftener if it wasn't for your dog."

"A dog," said the host without blinking, "is man's best friend."

Dore Schary, movie official: "It (TV) is eliminating our potboilers, dreadful melodrama and other junk."

SOCIAL SECURITY RISE

More than 9,000,000 persons may begin receiving an increase of from $2.50 to $8.60 a month in social security benefits with their October payments. For 4,400,000 of them, increases within that range are certain; for others, the amount depends upon action by their states.

Rise in oil refining is urged by United States official.

WARREN'S

Announcement . . .

I wish to announce that I have sold my interest in the Cole & McGahey service station to my partner Mr. Ray Cole. I have retired from this business because of my health — which caused my Doctor to say — "Quit work, or else."

I am very grateful to the citizens of Randall county for their loyal support throughout the years in which we have been in business here.

Ray Cole is a fine fellow and the best partner any person ever had.

I thank you for past business, and trust that you will continue to patronize Ray in this Firestone store.

Will be seeing you.

C. C. James of Dallas wrote some lines on "The Old Cow-Bell"; How dear to my heart was the sound of the cow-bell As over the hill it came into view; As the cows drew nearer, the sound came clearer, And mingled with voices that my boyhood knew. As the twilight deepens and the stars sing together, While the moonbeams play o'er the scenes we love so well, My heart is fast turning with a constant yearning For the familiar sound of the old cow-bell. The old-time cow-bell, The well-loved cow-bell, The musical cow-bell Which my boyhood knew.

In "Coastal Cattleman," "the Debunker" has this to say: "Placing a rope in a circle around you as you sleep in the open at night has no effect whatsoever on snakes. They will climb over it just as though it was a root or any other object in their path. This belief has been popular among men who were forced to sleep in the open during long trips across country with cattle and no doubt offered quite a bit of consolation if not protection. It has also been a popular belief that centipedes sting with each one of their many legs. This statement is just as untrue as the 'rope belief' and is probably attributed to the several bites a centipede will make if it is molested while crawling over the skin of a person, giving the appearance that they were caused by the legs."

WHY NOT?

"One of our waitresses, at the breakfast hour, served coffee and toast to a patron; 10 minutes later she breezed in with the orange juice. The customer complained of the sequence. "Are you married," asked the waitress. "Yes," said the customer. "What's that got to do with it?" "Well," says our dilemma, "why don't you have breakfast at home?"

GOT A LAUGH

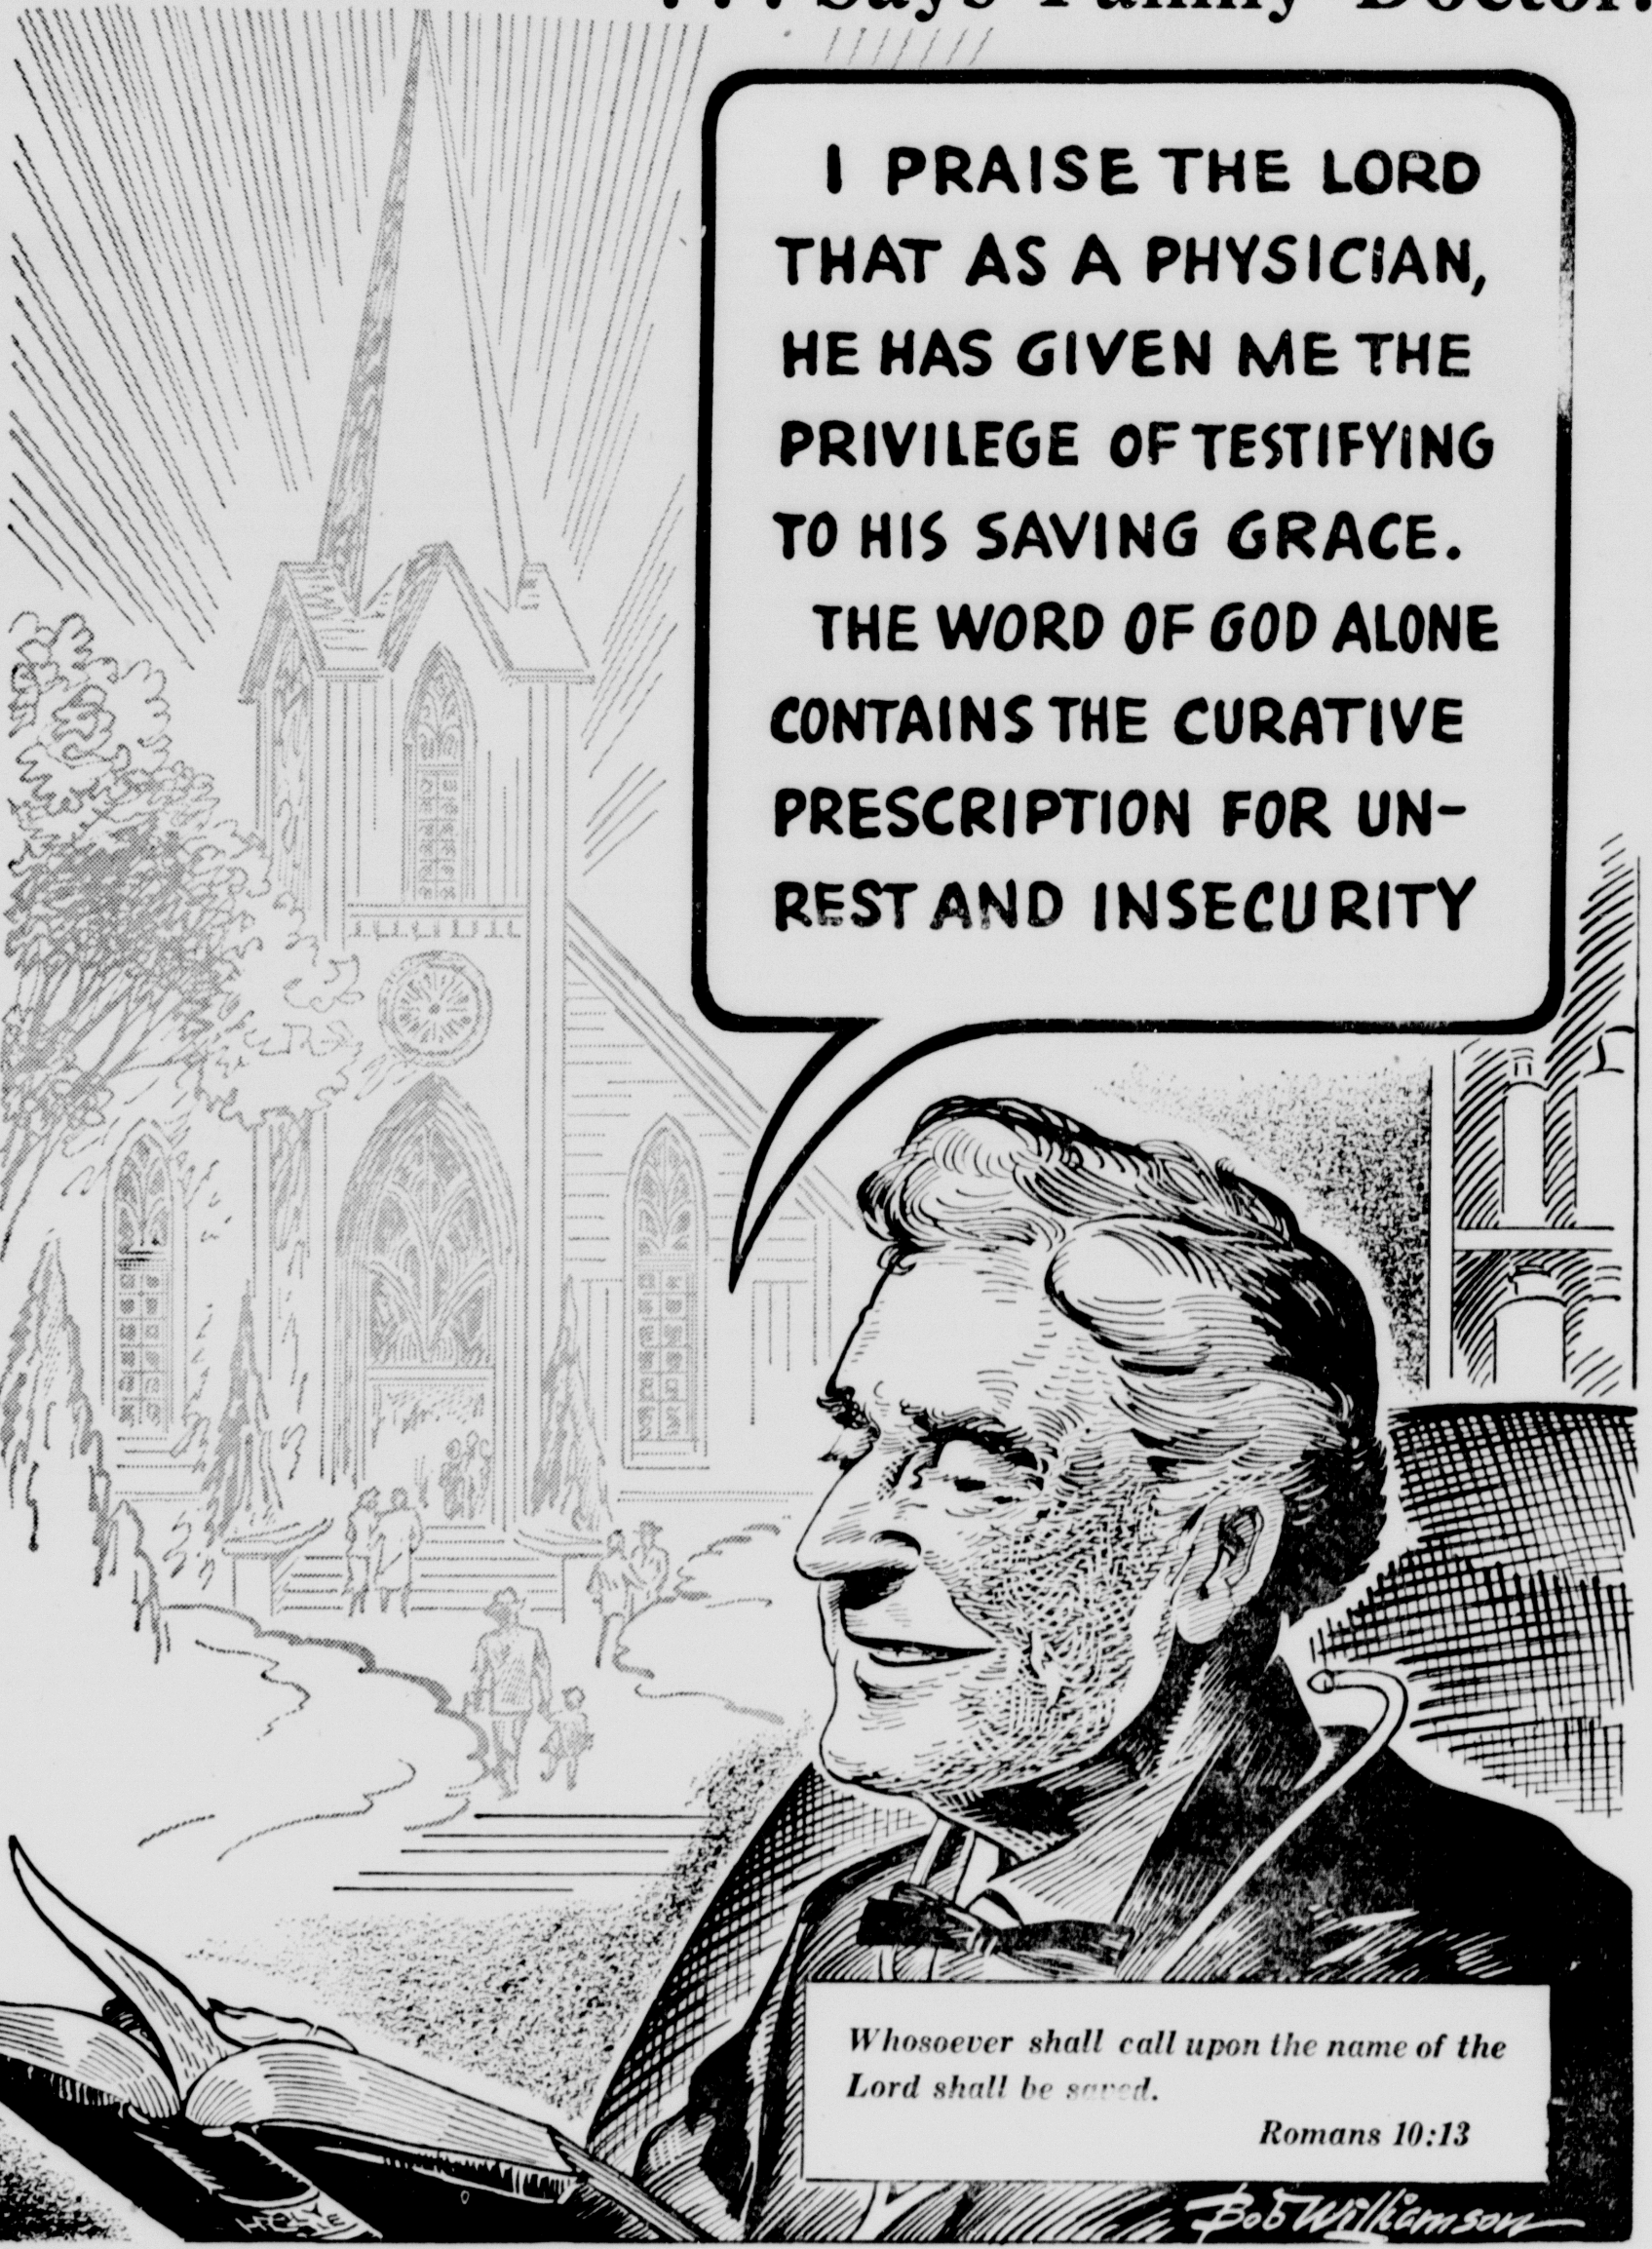

The wedding presents were on view. Displayed in a prominent position was a check for $1,000, the gift of the bride's father.

"I say, who is that chap laughing at your father's check?" exclaimed the bridegroom, feeling annoyed.

"Oh, that's the bank manager!" said the bride.

Governor Adlai Stevenson and President Harry Truman appear to have hit upon a satisfactory division of campaign duties. The President will defend the record of his own Administration and lambaste the Republican Party. Stevenson, for his part, will emphasize the "constructive" side of the campaign, talk about the future and keep his distance from Truman.

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower rejected the advice of some of his closest advisers when he accepted a bid to address the American Federation of Labor. He was told the AFL was likely to endorse Stevenson anyway, so "like" could gain little if any advantage.

Republicans are worried about carrying both Illinois and Ohio in the coming election. Stevenson's chances in Illinois are improved by the defection of Col. Robert R. McCormick and his Chicago Tribune from the Republicans. Ohio's Republican strength is weakened because Taft adherents in that State are still not reconciled to General Eisenhower.

A favorite complaint is lack of time. If we had more time, we'd visit the sick, be nicer to new people in town. We'd read good books, learn to play golf, take part in community affairs. To hear us tell it, we'd extend our horizons in a dozen different ways.

Yet what do we do when we actually get a little leisure? We spend an hour reading the newspaper instead of the fifteen minutes it deserves. We listen to a soap opera and darn socks that are ready for the rag bag. We become geniuses at frittering away time.

The tendency to hurry, to get one thing done so we may take up another hasty pursuit, can become habit to the point of fault. We heard someone say the other day that American women, in their eagerness to get to the next thing, miss all the fun in living today. "They don't even take time to enjoy their children," she said. "They're anxiously pushing on to the next stage." And often it's the same way with the spouse. During his brief lunch hour, we rarely have time to walk around the yard and enjoy the growing things; we have too much to do in the kitchen.

On the other hand, inactivity is not always an improvement over haste. Unless we're thinking through a problem as we manicure our nails, or building up reserve for greater family happiness as we rest, we might as well keep buzzing.

Whether too busy or too relaxed, we actually reveal the same trait: a surface-deep attitude toward life. Fully half of our troubles result either from imagined urgency or empty dawdling. We're hiding behind them to keep from facing up to things.

CRIME

The big news in New York and this section of the country, outside of politics, has revolved around the companionship racket that was flourishing in the "cafe society" walks of New York life. Many of the columnists have grabbed onto this expose and have talked about it almost daily in their columns. This makes good material for news stories and columnist comments because of the prominence of many of the people involved.

It also carries a tremendous reader interest, since it is a recognized fact that the downfall, demerits and shortcomings of human beings has always appealed to large segment of human beings. The trouble is that the publicity value of these events seem to diminish shortly after the original story breaks and the whole matter is soon forgotten.

The newspapers of this country could do a valuable service if they would carry these matters concerning crime clear through to the final conclusion and the punishment of the offenders. The final conclusion of the case and the punishment meted out to the offender, if found guilty, should be of great importance to people who are interested in suppressing crime. Publicity should also be given to the progress of the handling of the cases and the trials thereof.

At the present time, there are several television shows dealing with true crime stories. Some of these are stories that were developed in the hearings of the Kefauver Crime Committee. Great detail is given to the facts of the crime and the story usually ends with the offender being caught. Very little is said about the punishment meted out to the offender and the price that crime exacts.

The catching of the criminal is sometimes less than half of the task that faces the state or the government. The big job is the prosecution, the conviction and the punishment.

I sincerely hope that the publicity given the uncovering of what appears to be a vicious racket in the "cafe society" of New York will not be dropped, but that the whole story will be told to its final conclusion. It will open the eyes of many glamour-minded young people who look upon New York and its so-called "society circles" as the land of milk and honey. A complete expose of this situation can prove to these youngsters that all that glitters is not gold.

LESS PATERNALISM

A Junior Chamber of Commerce in Virginia did an admirable thing the other day. They adopted a resolution condemning the practice of every community in the country calling upon the federal government for grants, gifts and other expenditures.

The resolution recognized that the bills for these projects must come out of the taxpayers' pockets. It is indeed encouraging to know that the young people are vitally interested in stopping federal expenditures for these purposes.

It has long been the rule in many communities that a request for a federal grant was fully justified on the grounds that if that community didn't get the money some other community might.

The only way that federal spending can be stopped is for every community to adopt a rule that the only justification for such a request is that the funds are indispensable for the survival of the community, that an extreme emergency exists, and that every effort will be made to repay the funds so obtained.

LESS MILITARY EXPENDITURES

The announcement by Secretary of Defense Lovett that military expenditures would level off in the next fiscal year and that our preparedness program could be supported on a sustaining basis is most heartening to those of us who have continuously sought economy.

America does not want cheap defense, but by the same token, every taxpayer wants value received for defense dollars and has the inherent right to expect it. Waste of tax dollars is inexcusable, regardless of the department in which it occurs.

GRASS

Did you know that in the State of Texas, according to the latest Census of Agriculture (1945), approximately 77% of all lands in farms is used for pasture (in the Panhandle areas about 63% is used for grazing purposes); that approximately 50% of all feed requirements for domestic livestock in the United States is provided directly by pastures and ranges?

John James Ingalls, in his book, "Blue Grass," said, "It (grass) yields no fruit in earth or air, and yet, should its harvest fall for a single year, famine would depopulate the world."

Plenty and peace breed cowards.

Saturday Big Day As Firemen Bring Circus to Canyon

Some of the most breath-taking thrills possible to enjoy at a circus will be offered the Canyon people Saturday when the Fire Department will sponsor the Hagen Brothers Circus here for two performances. There will be trick riders, high trapeze artists, lovely women in colorful costumes and the joyful jesting of riotous clowns.

Advanced tickets can be had by contacting any local fireman. The advanced tickets are $1.30 for the adults and 60 cents for children. College students will be admitted for 60 cents if they buy an advanced ticket. A spokesman also said that arrangements would be made for other school children in the area to buy a ticket and attend one performance.

The firemen are sponsoring the show in order to start a much needed fund to buy equipment which cannot be obtained otherwise. In fact, this activity takes the place of a function known as the Firemen's Ball in other towns. By raising this fund the firemen can get such equipment as boots, helmets, axes, etc. This equipment is needed in the department but there are no funds available with which to buy them.

VET-INSURANCE DIVIDENDS

The Veterans Administration has estimated that of those entitled to $200,000,000 in 1952 dividends on national service life insurance, only half will draw out their share in cash this year. Two major reasons are assigned for this delay: 1. That the veterans either do not understand or ignored instructions that they must apply in writing; and, 2, that many who are not requesting checks, are simply letting their cash be credited to their account to pay later premiums, or to draw three per cent interest after a certain date.

Now is the time to put out peonies and strawberries. You will find them both at Stevens' Floral.

Marine Band To Give Concerts Here Next Month

Folks in the vicinity of Canyon are in for a real treat about the end of October. The United States Marine Band will appear for two concerts at West Texas State College auditorium on October 29th.

The matinee concert is scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock in the afternoon Wednesday, October 29. Admission for this performance is 75 cents. The evening performance begins at 8 o'clock and the two admissions are $1.50 and $2.00. Advanced tickets may be obtained by writing Box 426, Station 1, Canyon.

Lt. Col. William F. Santelmann is conductor of this band which is known as "The President's Own." The nationwide concert tour that the band is taking is by special approval of the President. At least 15 newspaper critics have lauded the musicians and the conductor for their great public appeal.

The band celebrates its 154th year this year to make it the oldest active musical organization in this country. In fact, it has been called the world's oldest and foremost symphonic band. It was approved by President Adams in 1798 and has been an active organization ever since. It has earned the familiar title, "The President's Own."

The automobile industry asked authority to produce at least 1,500,000 units in first quarter of 1953.

But knowledge to their eyes her ample page.

Rich with the spoils of time, ne'er unroll.

Name Officers

NEW VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE TEACHERS ASSOCIATION OFFICIALS . . . Officers elected to the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association of Texas at a meeting in Waco are, left to right: T. L. Devin, Canyon, vice-president; M. E. Keath, Sabinal, secretary-treasurer, and E. D. Ford, Taft, president.

It's always fun to speculate about politics.

I have been trying to put together some of the available evidence and come up with the answer as to whether General Eisenhower can carry Texas.

There are a good many signs that say he can. Other indications cast doubt on his chances.

For example, Texans have shown Governor Allan Shivers that they were with him when his anti-administration forces took charge of the party conventions.

Now they are showing him by their correspondence that they are with him, 10 to 1, in his stand against Governor Stevenson because of the latter's views on the tidelands question.

Another boost for the Ike theory is that, according to a poll taken by The Austin American, the general would carry the capital city two to one. And Austin has long been regarded as a liberal stronghold, which would put this city in the Democratic ranks.

The newspaper's poll revealed, however, that in the Central Texas area where its circulation spreads, Eisenhower and Stevenson are neck and neck.

Against Eisenhower was a statewide poll which reported that Stevenson was leading 60-40.

Most seasoned observers are slow to say that Ike can carry this state.

They say that while a great many voters are tired of the corruption and graft for which Washington has been infamous for the last year or so, there still remains the fact that there are many groups or blocks that will go Democratic because of their particular interests in administration policy.

These blocks include: Federal employees, many of whose jobs depend on the party in power.

Organized labor, which has made advances during the Roosevelt-Truman administrations.

Racial minority groups, whose leaders estimate that the Democrats are more favorable than the Republicans to civil rights legislation.

The farmers, who have benefited from subsidies, price programs, etc.

And the so-called "liberals," who believe that progress lies to the left.

While it is true that Stevenson will get many votes out of these groups — and may get a majority out of most of them — it is equally true that these blocks never vote solid.

In the ranks for federal employees, for example, numbers are in Civil Service and therefore do not rely on party allegiance for their jobs.

Union laborers are independent thinkers, thousands of whom are going to vote for Ike because they think he is the better candidate for President of the United States. And so on.

There are blocks that may be expected to go for Eisenhower: business, for example, because it is increasingly tax-conscious.

But that is not a solid block, either. Many business men figure that, despite taxes, they are better off now than they were under the last Republican administration.

Considering all these factors, I would guess — and a guess is all it is — that the situation is maybe about all even now. For the rest, it depends on the campaigning and what you do on election day.

MORE EXPENSE WHILE WAITING

"The average rural teacher's salary is $967 a year," said the man. "While the city teacher gets twice as much."

"Well," replied the woman. "It takes him twice as long to find a husband in town."

Eagles Kickoff Season Against Cowboys Friday

"They're a good bunch of boys," stated Coach Floyd Murry of his Canyon Eagles as they worked out Thursday afternoon. During the first days of school the boys were only only through some light of defensive drills. Coach Murry said the first day of light scrimmage was Friday, September 5.

Workouts for the Canyon Eagles started Labor Day. Coach Murry put the boys through two workout periods that day. Starting Tuesday, the first day of school, the boys had workout only once a day.

These workout sessions consisted mostly of drilling and basic fundamentals, the coach said. Although some of the boys are lacking in gridiron experience the Eagles will have a heavy line this year. The backfield is made up of small boys but most of them have quite a bit of experience.

In addition to the 27 boys on the A squad, the Eagles have 22 boys on the B squad.

First game for the Eagles this year will be Friday night with the Happy Cowboys. The game will be played here this year.

Murry Speaks to Lions of This Year's Eagles

Coach Floyd Murry of the Canyon High School Eagles was the speaker for the Lions Club luncheon Wednesday. He pointed out that he has a fine bunch of boys on his football team this year. He said that last year the presidents of all four of the high school classifications were football players. After pointing out that he had a top quality team this year the coach said it was up to the public to get behind these boys and support them.

Murry said the Eagles have fast backs and a heavy line but maintained that most of the boys on the line were inexperienced in football. In the backfield he said that two were back from last year. The other boys moved up from the B squad. Murry is trying a strategic manner of placing the boys so that the inexperienced boys will be near experienced, thereby preventing weak spots in the team.

The coach said they were getting ready for the first three games with a minimum of practice. After these games Murry said the Eagles would go into heavier practice.

During the opening of the season they plan to work off a T-formation. Murry said that if this was not effective they would later change to a single wing. He said one of the greatest morale builders the boys could have was an audience during their practice through the week. They work out south of the school house and can be seen easily from a car parked on 6th Avenue.

Five guests were entertained by the Lions Wednesday. They were Roger Whealy, Wendell Cain, R. E. Harter, Truett Hull, and Dr. Clark Harvey.

Ewing W. Mays, national commander, Disabled American Veterans: "The Korean veteran is the most under-appreciated man who ever bore arms in defense of this nation."

Maurice J. Tobin, Secretary of Labor: "It is better to send dollars to stop communism than to have to send our young men to stop it with bullets later on."

THIRD BIRTHDAY PRESENT

Brooks, Ky. — For the third time Mrs. Sylvia Griffin, 21, presented her husband with a baby on his birthday, July 28th. The last one, a boy, was born on July 28th this year. The other children are Diane, 3, and Yvonne, 1.

REASONABLE

The engagement rate among women under-graduates is undoubtedly much higher than it was a generation ago, and there is now a perceptible marriage rate.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican Presidential nominee: "The great subject of peace and how to obtain it overshadows all other subjects because it affects all others."

Alexander Wiley, U. S. Senator from Wisconsin, in Europe: "The Communists have not given up their objectives, which are to take over the world."

Mme. Herbineere Lebert, French president, World Organization for Early Childhood Education: "Cooperation and fraternity are no longer ideals to achieve but have become vital necessities."

Henry Long, Massachusetts tax commissioner, who never takes a vacation: "If you have a week's vacation, it takes a week to get over it."

The more we study, the more we discover our ignorance. —Shelley.

Canyon Now Has Total of Eight Retired Firemen

Dudley Bayne, city secretary, announced Thursday afternoon that the retirement of Kenneth E. Frieze made a total of eight men who have retired from the Canyon Fire Department. The department is on a volunteer basis and the men serve without pay, but upon retirement they receive $25 per month.

Mr. Frieze began serving with the department on January 11, 1922. He had been with the department more than 30 years and when he became 55 years of age he was retired from active duty.

After serving the department for 30 years, A. H. (Bud) Prichard was retired. Mr. Prichard was retired in February, 1946. According to the City Hall records he was the first Canyon fireman to retire with the present benefits.

In September of 1948 the department retired J. W. Kleinschmidt. He came into the department on January 15, 1921, serving 27 years and was retired with full benefits in 1948.

W. J. Prichard became an active member of the Canyon Fire Department in January, 1924. He served for 26 years and was retired in September, 1950.

Ray Campbell is also a retired fireman. He entered the department in January, 1924. He served 25 years with the group and was retired in October.

March, 1951, was the retiring date for George Allan Farlow. Mr. Farlow became a fireman on Jan. of 1924. He served the department 28 years before retiring in 1951.

R. B. Davis served the fire department 27 years before he retired. Mr. Davis became a fireman in January, 1923. He met requirement for retiring in May, 1950.

Clarence L. Thompson served the volunteer group 34 years before he was eligible to retire. Mr. Thompson came into the Canyon Fire Department in January, 1917. He was retired in October, 1951, when he reached the age limit of 55.

Requirements for eligibility to retire are 25 years with the department and be 55 years of age. Most of the retiring firemen had been with the department more than the required 25 years. They had to remain on an active status until they reached the age of 55 before being eligible to retire.

TWO CRASHES IN FAMILY

Oneida, N. Y. — Stopping his car on a country highway, Lewis Eaton, Sr., of Knoxboro, had the unpleasant experience of having it crashed into—by his daughter, Bertha. A few minutes later a third car, driven by a son, Lewis Eaton, Jr., banged into the rear of Miss Eaton's automobile. Eaton suffered chest injuries but the son and daughter were not hurt.

The Communist party in this country "never knowingly has deviated" from the Kremlin's views and policies but has stuck to the principles of the Marxism-Leninism, the Department of Justice declared.

'PRANK' MARRIAGE ANNULLED

Tucson, Ariz. — The marriage of one of the two couples, who were wed as a "prank," has been annulled. Joe Holland, 17, a sailor on leave from San Diego, Calif., and Betty Williamson, 13, were married just five days, when her parents had the marriage annulled. The other couple, Thomas Larsen, 18, and Neva Brooks, 13, have been separated, but no annulment proceedings have been instigated.

EAGLES STALK ANTELOPES

Deer Lodge, Mont. — While out in a valley, Marvin Pearce, of Deer Lodge, saw a golden eagle circling in the sky. Suddenly, the bird folded its wings and plunged earthward. A few feet from the ground, the eagle threw out its wings, braking the drive and flapped its sharp talons into the back of an antelope fawn. Game Warden Les Barton declares the eagles have been killing an average of one fawn a day since June 1st and do not confine their killing to antelope but also kill deer fawns and calf elk.

MAYOR SWORN IN AT SEA

Orange, Texas. — Sid J. Callavet was a guest of the Navy aboard the USS Dixie, somewhere between Pearl Harbor and San Diego, when he was sworn into office as Mayor via a radio-telephone hookup. The Navy arranged the hookup so his inauguration wouldn't be delayed by his trip.

Scattered showers over the country did little to improve the condition of crops in drought-ridden states. In the South emergency measures were being taken to try to save livestock.
